Over the last 5 weeks Michelle has been guiding students with individual instruction focusing on proportion, colour, form, space, specific features, drawing concerns and paint handling.

Students worked from plaster casts and references and models over the course. Understanding perspective and geometry in the human head, anatomy and specific features on the face, proportion and light source.

Thank you to Bianca and Daryl who sat for free to enable this class to proceed, your generosity in sitting was very much appreciated by the students.

Fiona Bilbrough Twenty Melbourne Painter

The course will include an intense study in the elements of design, being tone, composition edges and how paint behaves. There will be high quality reference material provided paying particular attention to historic masters including Sargent, Velasquez, Vermeer and others to inspire. My belief has always been to create an atmosphere in class of Can-Do attitude. With highly considered references from the great masters, and art language put in simple terms. I hope you become as enthralled as I am about the ability to mess with people's heads, in that something that can be squirted out of a tube can be presented to others as a window into our vision.

Understanding how paint behaves and applying it in abbreviations is like learning another language. It can be daunting, but it can also be a hell of a ride into the most wonderful form of true mindfulness. Having something to show for your time and effort means the lessons will be retained and looked on repeatedly with joy. Please come and try this course and surprise yourself at how beautiful it is to be present in a creative space that offers us painters something non painters sadly don't get to experience. That being open to the idea of learning a craft, historically only few had opportunity to perfect. Remember it is the journey that counts. It's going to be fun. I promise. I love working with beginners as well as experienced painters.
